

Researchers write and revise by...

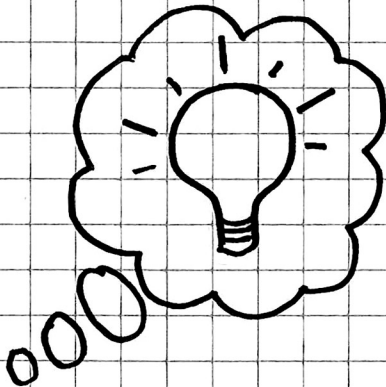

... identifying sections that need more information and conducting quick research to fill the gaps.

... assessing their work against a checklist of expectations.

... thinking like historians and studying maps to include specific details about places.

... pushing ourselves to grow ideas!